Cincinnati, Ohio USA - May 23, 2014 - Mesa Industries, Inc. has received national certification as a Women's Business Enterprise by the Women's Business Enterprise National Council (WBENC), the nation's largest third-party certifier of the businesses owned and operated by women in the U.S.

"Since Mesa began in 1967 we have built a reputation for consistently delivering high-quality, American-made products at competitive prices to clients worldwide," said Terry Segerberg, CEO. "Now, as a certified Women's Business Enterprise, there is one more reason to look to Mesa for your needs – we can help you add diversity to your supply chain."

Mesa will announce the news to its customers in May via personal letters and in June at the International Liquid Terminals Association (ILTA) annual conference in Houston. ILTA is recognized as the premier international event in the tank storage industry, one of the key markets for Mesa's product line.

Mesa's product line consists of equipment for the oil and gas, concrete construction and mining industries. The company engineers emission reduction products and hose systems for the oil and gas industry. It manufactures concrete pumps and accessories for the concrete construction industry and pressure vessels for the mining industry. The diversity of Mesa's product line has allowed the company to remain strong through economic downturns.

Mesa is American-based company delivering American-made products since 1967. Now certified as a women owned business, Mesa is proud to help customers achieve their supplier diversity goals.
